MMTC Meeting

The Mira Mesa Town Council invites everyone interested to attend the Mira Mesa Town Council meeting at the Mira Mesa Library at 7pm Monday, May 6, 2024.

Requirements to join RSVP are to have a valid California driver's license, be 50 years or older, retired or semi-retired, go through a background check, spend one week at an academy learning what to do and what not to do, and donate 3 ½ days a month.

Public Facilities Deficiencies in the Mira Mesa Community Plan
Jeff Stevens
April 19, 2024

The Mira Mesa Community Plan was adopted by the San Diego City Council in December 2022. The Mira Mesa Community Planning Group made a set of recommendations to correct deficiencies in the Community Plan. Those deficiencies include insufficient public facilities; inconsistencies with City standards, unmitigated impacts and wishful thinking. The complete set of recommendations can be found at this link. This is the second in a series of newsletter articles discussing these deficiencies and recommendations for correcting them. The first recommendation is:

> Public Facilities
> Under "Guiding Principles, the Plan says "Investment in new public facilities to meet community needs" but there are no specifics about how this is to be done.
> The Plan needs to be accompanied by a Public Facilities Financing Plan with cost estimates, schedule and funding mechanism implied by the plan.

The 1992 Mira Mesa Community Plan was very successful. It added parks, a new library and other public facilities and provided a funding mechanism to build them. That mechanism was the Facilities Benefit Assessment (FBA) and Public Facilities Financing Plan. This plan can still be found on the City website at this link, but it was last updated in 2016 and is no longer in effect. The plan contained a list of all the public facilities identified in the 1992 Mira Mesa Community Plan, with cost estimates for each of them. Developers were assessed an amount calculated to build the public facilities over the duration of community development. The timing of public facilities development was spread out so that fees remained constant except for an inflation factor.

There was one downside to this approach – since projects could not begin until money was available, public facilities lagged in time behind development. But over the course of 30 years, almost all of the planned public facilities were built or will be built with the remaining money in the fund.

In contrast, the 2022 Community Plan has no funding mechanism for public facilities. The City still collects Development Impact Fees, but they all go into a central pot to be distributed throughout the City, unrelated to where development takes place and with no link between the fees and projects identified in community plans. The City no longer maintains Public Facilities Financing Plans for any community, so community plans just have a list of public facilities with no cost estimates or timing estimates. Although the new Mira Mesa Community Plan lists a large number of recommended parks and other public facilities, with no phasing plan, timeline or funding mechanism, it is difficult to see how any of them get built. The solution to this problem is to bring back the public facilities financing plans. Although the centralized funding policy makes this more difficult, it is still possible to make a list of public facilities for every community, estimate costs, estimate income and estimate timing.

Hello Neighbors,

There is a lot of activity in our community and at City Hall this time of year. Keep reading to learn how you can get involved with creating the City's new budget.

First, I wanted to highlight that this is a special time of year for our community. Earlier this month, my family and I had the pleasure of celebrating Thai, Lao, and Cambodian New Year. And just last week, San Diegans came together to mark Passover. I extend warm wishes to all who celebrated!

Looking ahead into May, it's, of course, a time to acknowledge our military service members who sacrificed everything for our nation on Memorial Day. We will also be marking Asian American and Pacific Islander (AAPI) Heritage Month with an array of exciting events, including Convoy Nights on May 4th. Swing by our booth at Kilowatt Brewery to enjoy a free family event featuring local vendors and entertainment.

Meanwhile, I recently joined my City Council colleagues, local agencies, and more than 170 civic and business leaders in Washington, D.C., to advocate for priorities crucial to our region. Many thanks to the San Diego Regional Chamber of Commerce for coordinating. A few highlights include:

- Meeting with officials from the federal Department of Transportation to encourage investments in important San Diego priorities, such as reducing traffic in Sorrento Valley and expanding Terminal 1 at San Diego International Airport.
- A sit down with Dr. Kimberly McClain, Assistant Secretary for Congressional and Intergovernmental Relations at the Department of Housing and Urban Development, to advocate for additional federal funding to bolster special purpose vouchers [which will help vulnerable populations with rental assistance, including people experiencing homelessness or youth exiting foster care], discuss the importance of making emergency housing vouchers permanent, and calling for federal funding to supplement the City of San Diego's existing Housing Instability Prevention Program which will help low-income families or families experiencing or at risk of homelessness to pay rent and other related expenses.

Lastly, I had the honor of moderating the Chamber delegation's meeting with the Embassy of Japan. We met with Taro Han, First Secretary of the Economic Section at the Embassy of Japan to discuss the U.S.- Japan economic, cultural, and diplomatic relationship, as well as efforts to address common challenges and to strengthen collaboration.

As chair of the City's Budget & Government Efficiency Committee, I want to ensure you know about an opportunity to make your voice heard at City Hall. I encourage everyone to participate in our office's upcoming Budget Town Hall on May 15th, where we will be joined by the Office of Independent Budget Analyst. Your input and engagement are invaluable to creating a fair, responsible, and balanced budget. More details about the event can be found below, and I hope to see you there!

Senate Energy Committee Rejects Cost of Living Reduction Act

Measure by Jones would have pulled the plug on the new, proposed $24.15 fixed charge on electricity bills

SACRAMENTO, CA – Yesterday evening, Democrat members of the Senate Energy, Utilities, and Communications Committee rejected the Cost of Living Reduction Act, Senate Bill 1326, proposed by Senate Minority Leader Brian W. Jones (R-San Diego). The measure had an urgency clause and had it passed and become law, it would have immediately repealed an unfair law mandating the California Public Utilities Commission (CPUC) impose an uncapped, fixed charge on electrical bills. Thousands of Californians signed the petition in support of the measure. Click here for the bill's fact sheet.

"It's shameful that all 14 Democrats on the Senate Energy Committee refused to even cast a vote Cost of Living Reduction Act," said Leader Jones. "Thousands of Californians support this measure and their refusal to act is a stark betrayal of the very constituents they claim to represent. The current decision from the PUC may be an improvement over the big utilities' plan, but the fixed charge still remains excessively high. I am extremely concerned that the PUC now has unchecked power to increase this charge any time it wants. The state needs to be working to lower living costs, not passing more burdens onto renters and households."

After Senate Republicans raised the alarm for months, the CPUC felt the pressure and rejected the billing scheme proposed by California's Investor-Owned Utilities (IOUs) that would have added an income-based charge of up to $128 per month. Instead, the CPUC recently approved a $24.15 per month charge coupled with a reduction in usage rates, with tiered charges for lower-income customers. Despite this, Leader Jones contends that the fixed charge remains excessive, especially considering its uncapped nature under current law, allowing the CPUC to increase arbitrarily at any time.

The Cost of Living Act sought to repeal the problematic provisions of the Democrat Assembly Bill 205 (2022), which ordered the CPUC to approve this fixed charge for IOU customers. This bill was never heard, vetted, or voted on in any policy committee and was rammed through the Legislature in a budget trailer bill by the Democrat supermajority at the last minute.

"AB 205 represents everything wrong with the one-party Democrat rule: rushed and flawed legislation detrimental to hardworking Californians," continued Leader Jones.

Despite the supermajority pushing the bill forward, 22 Democrats who initially supported AB 205 are reversing course and now calling to stop the new fixed charge.

Given that AB 205 mandates the authorization of the income-based fixed charge by July 1, 2024, Jones's SB 1326 had an urgency clause to take effect immediately upon being signed into law.

Dear Neighbor,

This past week, I visited our State Capitol along with my fellow California Big City Mayors to advocate for permanent funding to address homelessness through the State's Homelessness Housing, Assistance and Prevention (HHAP). This is a grant program designed to provide local jurisdictions with funding to expand or develop local programs and services to address homelessness.

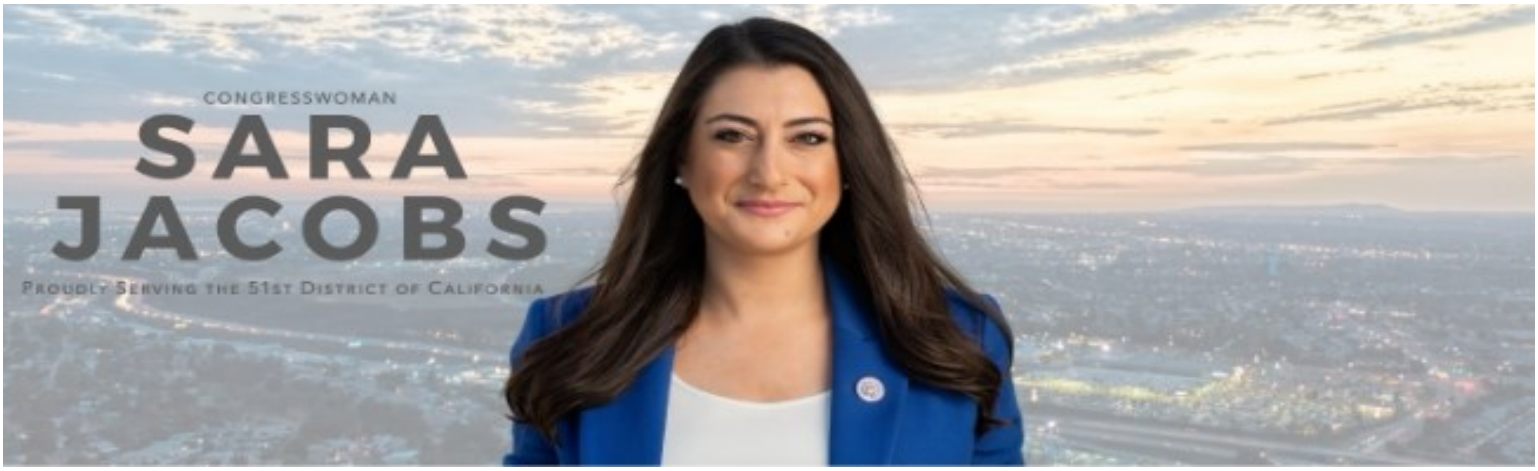
The funding from this program has empowered cities across California to serve nearly 150,000 unhoused people and create more than 15,000 shelter beds. Past Big City Mayor advocacy efforts have helped secure vital funding for homelessness programs up and down the state.

However, we have to do more. The Big City Mayors' visit — which included the Mayors of Los Angeles, Sacramento, Fresno, Stockton, and Irvine — underscores the vital need for ongoing state support to sustain and enhance the services that bring hope and help to our most vulnerable populations.

We also shared the importance of continuing investments that help cities tackle housing affordability as well as create youth employment opportunities.

Your support and feedback inspire our relentless advocacy for policies that make a tangible difference in the lives of Californians. Together, we are striving to build a more compassionate and inclusive state.

As always, it's an honor to serve as your Mayor.



Dear Friend,

Yesterday, President Biden signed the national security supplemental package into law, which will send long-overdue, life-saving humanitarian assistance to Sudan, Gaza, and other regions, and deliver defensive aid to Ukraine, Israel, Taiwan, and more.

I voted to pass this package and here's why:

Passing the National Security Supplemental Package

As the Ranking Member of the House Foreign Affairs Subcommittee on Africa, I visited Sudanese refugees at the Sudan-Chad border last month. I saw firsthand how dire the situation is: 25 million people – including 14 million children – are without food, water, shelter, and first aid, and millions of people have been forced to flee their homes, making it the largest internal displacement crisis in the world. This funding package included $9 billion for humanitarian aid to help address this and other catastrophic humanitarian crises across the globe.

That same funding will also help address the horrific humanitarian crisis unfolding in Gaza and assist the 1.5 million displaced Palestinians who need immediate help in Rafah. I have been horrified by the Israeli military's conduct in this war and the resulting mass civilian casualties, and I believe the U.S. needs to enforce existing law and withhold further offensive weapons to Israel.

At the same time, I couldn't vote against a funding package that will help the millions of people suffering in Sudan who are running out of aid, and the millions of Palestinians suffering starvation and lack of basic needs.

This foreign aid package also included much-needed assistance for Taiwan, and for Ukraine to support its defense against Russia's illegal invasion. I'll keep working to support our partners around the world as they defend democracy and fight for their futures.

But we need to do more than just provide funding. We need to continue to push for lasting political solutions to end these conflicts and end the suffering – including an immediate and permanent ceasefire in Gaza, the return of all the hostages still held in captivity, and an immediate ceasefire between the RSF and SAF in Sudan.

Supervisors Vote to Expand Small Business Opportunities

"Whenever possible and practical, we want San Diego County businesses doing San Diego County work, especially small businesses and veteran-owned businesses," said Supervisor Terra Lawson-Remer, vice chair of the Board of Supervisors.

Today Supervisor Lawson-Remer voted with her Board colleagues to direct staff to investigate opportunities to expand the County's reach to local businesses. Actions could include outreach, education, and a review of current programs that enhance the ability of local businesses to participate in County procurements.

In Fiscal Year 2022-23, the County had a total procurement spend of over $1.9 billion. County staff will report back to the Board within 180 days.

The vote is one of many Supervisor Lawson-Remer has cast to uplift the region's small and local businesses.

When Supervisor Lawson-Remer joined the Board of Supervisors in 2021, the region was in the midst of the COVID-19 pandemic, and many businesses were struggling. She immediately got to work on new ways to drive economic prosperity and inclusive growth.

Supervisor Lawson-Remer co-authored a bipartisan proposal to ensure $30 million in federal relief dollars would be dedicated to supporting small businesses throughout the county that were disproportionately affected by the shutdowns during the pandemic. It helped more than 4,000 businesses keep their doors open, lights on, rents paid, and workers employed.

She also wrote and passed a policy during the pandemic to support mom-and-pop landlords who were struggling financially because their tenants weren't working and unable to pay rent. The Supervisor's policy allowed them to pay their bills and keep the tenants housed.

By seeking additional opportunities to conduct business with small, veteran- and disabled veteran-owned businesses, the County intends to further support underserved members of the community who have historically faced barriers to entry and fewer opportunities to succeed.

Mother's Day

By Kaanchan S Farkiya

Mother's Day is a special occasion celebrated worldwide to honor mothers and motherhood. It's a day to appreciate and show gratitude to mothers, grandmothers, stepmothers, and other maternal figures for their love, care, and support. Mother's Day is celebrated on different dates around the world, though in the United States, it is observed on the second Sunday of May each year. In 2024, Mother's Day in the U.S. will fall on May 12. It's a beautiful way to recognize the significant roles mothers play in our lives and express our love and appreciation.

Mother's Day is about showing your mother love and appreciation, and it doesn't have to involve extravagant gifts or expensive outings. Some ideas for celebrating Mother's Day are as follows: There are some Mother's Day celebration ideas such as creating homemade gifts such as a photo album, scrapbook, or handmade card. These personalized gifts are often more meaningful than store-bought ones. You can cook a meal at home, take a walk together, such as hike together in a scenic location, plant a garden in pots on the balcony, have a movie night at home, picnic in the park, DIY spa day, create a memory with handwritten notes, memories, and quotes, write a letter and show your expression of your love, appreciation, volunteer together in your community. Celebrating Mother's Day on a budget doesn't mean you can't make it special. What matters most is spending quality time together and creating lasting memories. The most important thing is to show your mother love, appreciation, and gratitude in a way that is meaningful to her.
