What is Going On in Carroll Canyon?

By Jeff Stevens, Chair, Mira Mesa Community Planning Group

Carroll Canyon has been used for gravel mining since the 1950's. Since then, San Diego has expanded north and Carroll Canyon is now part of the Community of Mira Mesa. As the gravel mining operations wind down, Carroll Canyon is redeveloping with a variety of land uses. The picture below shows Carroll Canyon, outlined in red, with 9 areas marked that are all developing in different ways.

1. OnPoint Technology Center – this is a proposed biotechnology industrial project on the south side and near the west end of Carroll Canyon. It requires a plan amendment because the area is open space in the Community Plan. MMCPG voted against the plan amendment initiation because of the impact on wetlands and loss of open space, but the Planning Commission approve it and asked them to see if they could work out the problems.
2. El Camino Memorial Park – this cemetery has been in existence since 1960, and is still expanding. A new proposal would add 4,000 grave sites to the northern part of the cemetery.
3. "Missing Link" of Carroll Canyon Road – Carroll Canyon Road is supposed to run from I-805 to I-15, and all except this small ~3/4 mile segment will or has been built by the surrounding development. However this segment is the City's responsibility to build and it currently has no funding. A feasibility study conducted in 2022 found an estimated cost of ~$50 million for this segment.
4. Fenton Technology Park – fully developed except for Carroll Canyon Road on the south side of the project. This project built Camino Santa Fe linking Mira Mesa Blvd and Miramar Road.
5. 3Roots – This 1800 unit housing project is approaching completion.
6. Bruce Brown Community Park – this new community park named after long time Mira Mesa volunteer Bruce Brown is being built for the City by 3Roots and will replace the community park lost to vernal pools adjacent to Challenger Middle School. The site has been graded and the park should be complete in 2026 or 2027.

7. Carroll Canyon Business Park. Fully developed business park on the south side of Carroll Canyon west of Camino Ruiz.
8. Stone Creek is a future development planned for 4450 housing units as well as some industrial and commercial areas. This is the redevelopment of Vulcan's mining area and will not start for at least another 5 years. MMCPG approved the project some time ago with the requests that 1) all traffic mitigation is completed in advance; and 2) that they build the project shown in their master plan without major changes.
9. Flite Golf Entertainment Center – this site is currently a driving range. It has a proposal in the works to expand it with a new clubhouse and triple decker driving range.

Let's Unite to Help Veterans and Shelter Dogs

GFWC Mira Mesa Women's Club, a 51-year-old all-volunteer nonprofit, is raising $18,000 to sponsor a psychiatric service dog for a veteran through Shelter to Soldier, a San Diego nonprofit whose mission is "Saving Lives, Two at a Time." The program rescues shelter dogs and trains them as highly skilled psychiatric service animals, giving the dogs a second chance while providing veterans coping with PTSD, Traumatic Brain Injury, and/or Military Sexual Trauma a loyal companion who helps them heal and reconnect with their families and communities.

This cause is deeply personal to us. Many of our members have spouses, children, and loved ones who have served in the military, and one of our members is a proud retired military officer. My Dad retired from the Navy after 20 years. Our service projects for veterans and active-duty military have included Stand Down for Homeless Veterans, Adopt-a-Family for Christmas, and annually, Wreaths Across America.

On Saturday, November 15, 2025, from 12:30-3:30 PM, we will host our Fundraiser for a Service Dog for a Veteran. The event will feature:

- Fun Bingo
- Raffles of Wonderful Gift Baskets
- A special raffle for tabletop Christmas Trees
- Amazing Silent auction
- Appetizers and Desserts

We would be honored to have you as a sponsor.

Service Dog for a Veteran Sponsorship Levels

San Diego, CA — In what will be a major breakthrough for mental-health and addiction treatment and a model for other California counties, San Diego County is gearing up to build a new, integrated Behavioral Health Wellness Campus in the Midway District. The state-of-the-art facility will offer medical treatment and support services in one location — serving everyone from an unhoused veteran in crisis to an adult working to overcome addiction. The whole-person care campus in one location will be a model for other counties in California.

San Diego County Board of Supervisors Chair Terra Lawson-Remer was joined outside the Psychiatric Hospital of San Diego County by the County's Behavioral Health Services Director, doctors, community leaders, and people with lived experience to highlight the vision for the new campus.

"For too long, families have been forced to navigate a maze of disconnected programs in their worst moments," said Chair Terra Lawson-Remer. "The result has been overcrowded emergency rooms, rising homelessness, and avoidable safety risks. By bringing care, stability, and dignity under one roof, this campus will give people a place to turn — and help us build a system that prevents crises instead of just reacting to them."

Located on the site of the former County Health Services Complex on Rosecrans Street, the Behavioral Health Wellness Campus would serve as a comprehensive hub linking mental-health, substance-use treatment, crisis stabilization, and outpatient care. The project is estimated at $210 million and could serve more than 20,000 San Diegans each year, including veterans, working-age adults, and justice-involved residents.

"Being able to access care needs in one place leads to better outcomes, and ultimately, lives saved. San Diego's proposed Behavioral Health Wellness Campus aligns with this innovative best practice. As one of the first projects to move forward with this campus model in California, we appreciate San Diego's strong leadership," said Karen Larsen CEO of the Steinberg Institute, a non-profit in Sacramento focusing on mental health care.

The announcement comes as the County submits its application for up to $100-million in state Proposition 1 Behavioral Health Continuum Infrastructure Program (BHCIP) funding to help build the campus — a cornerstone of California's effort to modernize mental-health care and expand treatment capacity. The County would contribute the remaining costs.

Whole-Person Care in One Location

The proposed campus would include:

- Crisis Stabilization Unit – Short-term, therapeutic care for adults 18 years and older in acute crisis needing immediate stabilization to reduce emergency department use and/or jails..
- Mental Health Rehabilitation Center – Long-term, 24/7 treatment and rehabilitation for people with serious mental illness.

- Social Rehabilitation Facility / Peer Respite – Voluntary, peer-led support for adults experiencing emotional distress in a home-like setting.
- Adult Residential Substance Use Treatment Facility – Medically monitored recovery for individuals addressing drug or alcohol dependence.
- Outpatient Community Mental Health Clinic – Accessible preventive and ongoing treatment with therapy, case management, and peer programs.

Nadia Privara-Brahms, is the Acting Director for San Diego County Behavioral Health Services.

"The County of San Diego Behavioral Health Wellness Campus will offer an integrated, community-based behavioral health resource where mental health and substance use services will be co-located This new wellness campus will address health disparities, unmet needs, and advance equity in behavioral health by expanding access to high-quality, person-centered care for populations disproportionately impacted by mental illness, substance use, homelessness, and justice involvement," said Nadia Privara-Brahms, Acting Director for San Diego County Behavioral Health Services.

Steve Koh, MD, MPH, MBA, Psychiatrist-in-Chief and Associate Chief Medical Officer for behavioral health at UC San Diego Health, explained how whole-person care in one location along with the expansion of treatment and support services will improve outcomes and help patients from slipping through the cracks instead of getting treatment.

"It is important for patients suffering from substance use or mental health issues to be treated with respect and with comprehensiveness to their complex conditions,"said Dr. Steve Koh. "They are deserving of a treatment home from which a full spectrum of services is made available. In their time of need, we cannot continue to push a disjointed model, expecting them to find their own way. UC San Diego Health has long supported such evolution in care as evidenced by our work at East Campus Medical Center. A full-services Wellness Campus supported by San Diego County is a welcome step towards our mutual goal of meeting the needs of our fellow San Diegans."

Building Care Before Crisis

This project builds on years of County investment to expand crisis-stabilization units, launch mobile crisis-response teams, and double residential-treatment capacity across the region.

California's behavioral-health system has been underfunded for decades, with resources declining since the 1970s. In recent years, San Diego County has worked to reverse that trend — increasing its behavioral-health budget by 40 percent since 2021. The Behavioral Health Wellness Campus will continue that progress, creating a comprehensive continuum of care that saves lives, prevents homelessness, and restores dignity.

Hi Friend,

As you've probably heard, Republicans in Congress have shut down the government and are refusing to return to Washington to negotiate a deal to reopen it. But what is this fight about?

Democrats have been very clear: we're asking Republicans to extend the Affordable Care Act (ACA) enhanced premium tax credits, reverse Medicaid cuts, and protect Congress's power of the purse. Without ACA tax credits, many people will see their premiums increase by hundreds, if not thousands, of dollars next year. That means millions of Americans will become uninsured because they simply can't afford their plans.

And now, it's getting real.

Yesterday, California residents covered by ACA Marketplace plans began receiving notices from their insurance companies about increased premiums and reduced subsidies.

If you received a notice from your insurance company or are concerned that your health insurance premiums will rise, please share your story with me here.

Sharing screenshots or documents of your rising health care costs helps me convince my Republican colleagues in Congress that this is a crisis that needs urgent action.

Not sure if your premiums will go up? You can check and compare plans with this tool through Covered California: https://apply.coveredca.com/lw-shopandcompare/.

I will never stop fighting to lower your health care costs and to guarantee everyone access to care.

Warmly,

Rep. Sara Jacobs
Member of Congress

Veterans Day

By Kaanchan S Farkiya

Veterans Day in the USA is celebrated on November 11th every year. This federal holiday honors the men and women who have served in the United States Armed Forces. Many businesses, schools, and government offices are closed on this day to show appreciation for veterans' sacrifices and contributions.

Here are some meaningful ways to celebrate Veterans Day:
- Attend a Parade or Event : Many cities host parades on Veterans Day. Attending a parade is a great way to show support and appreciation for veterans while enjoying a festive community event.
- Visit a Memorial or Cemetery : Visit a local veterans' memorial or museum to learn more about military history and the sacrifices made by service members. You can also decorate graves of deceased veterans with flowers or flags.
- Support Veteran Businesses : Consider shopping at veteran-owned businesses or dining at restaurants owned by veterans. This is a great way to show appreciation and support for those who have served.
- Volunteer : Volunteer at a veterans' hospital, local chapter of a veterans' association, or a charity event focused on helping veterans. This direct involvement shows veterans that their contributions are valued and appreciated.
- Write Letters or Send Care Packages: Send letters or care packages to veterans or active service members to show appreciation for their service. You can also send care packages to deployed service members through organizations like the USO or Operation Gratitude.
- Host a Ceremony or Tribute : Host a ceremony or tribute to honor veterans, which can include a moment of silence, flag-raising ceremony, and patriotic music.
- Make a Donation : Consider donating to organizations that support veterans, such as the Fisher House Foundation or other veteran-focused charities.
- Spend Time with Veterans : Spend time with veterans, listen to their stories, and show appreciation for their service. You can visit a veterans' home or invite a veteran to speak at your school or workplace.
- Fly the American Flag : Show your support and honor veterans by flying the American flag on Veterans Day.
- Observe a Moment of Silence : Observe a moment of silence at 11:11 am on Veterans Day to honor the sacrifices made by service members throughout history.

- Parades and Events : Many cities host parades and events to honor veterans. Check local event calendars or websites like the San Diego Veterans Affairs office for updates.
- Free Meals : Some organizations offer free meals to veterans on Veterans Day.
- Memorial Services: Visit the San Diego Veterans Memorial or other local memorials to pay respects.
- Volunteer Opportunities: Consider volunteering at a veterans' organization or charity.

To find specific events in San Diego, you can:
- Check online event calendars like Eventbrite or Meetup
- Visit the City of San Diego's website or social media pages
